Road Woes

West Road work to cost $300,000 more

By MATT POPOVICH

HARRISON – City Council voted, with council member Lexis Dole nay and Mike Mains absent, to approve $300,000 to complete the West Road overpass safety improvement project originally expected to be fully funded by the state of Ohio.

During the meeting, several council members explained their votes to approve the unexpected funding appropriation. Mains drafted a letter that was read during the meeting by Dole.

“On a dark and rainy night in September of 2018, a 55-year-old woman was found deceased on the West Road overpass. I don’t think anyone that has ever driven over, walked across or ridden their bicycle over would have been surprised that this happened. It is unfortunate that a fatality made everyone in this community gravely aware that the pedestrian access over this bridge was long overdue,” wrote Mains. “... In January (2023) it was reported to Jim Leslie, our public works director, that inflation had taken the project from $1 million dollars to $1.8 million. The state was able to find another $500,000 in state funding but claimed that they could not honor the 100 percent funding that they had promised, so tonight here we are voting to approve $300,000 in city funds so that the project can move forward this year. I feel like the state of Ohio broke their promise to the citizens of Harrison.

7th grader has one bucket item accomplished

RISING SUN – Most people during the course of a lifetime will create a bucket list with a number of experiences or achievements they hope to have or accomplish during their lifetime. Maddy Phillippe, a seventh grader at Ohio County Elementary Middle School, has successfully mastered a part of hers and has one more item to cross off.

Phillippe became interested in cheerleading when she was in first grade. The connection came naturally, there were two generations of cheerleaders within her family. Her mother Brittany (Hochstrasser) Phillippe and her great-grandmother Patty Koons were both cheerleaders.

“I used to be able to do all kinds of stuff when I was in grade school,” said her great-grandmother, referring to her days as a cheerleader. “She’s going to be taking after her mother, because she can do nine flips at a time.”

Maddy has participated in cheerleading camps held at Rising Sun Schools, practiced tumbling at The Gymnasium in Aurora at the age of 7, and learned back handsprings at a gym in Erlanger. Koons remembers Maddy jumping on the trampoline when she was smaller and would say “watch me, watch me, I can do it now,” after successfully mastering the techniques.

Recently Maddy was able to attend an Indiana University basketball game on Feb.

BRIGHT – North Dearborn Pantry Inc. representatives braved chilly early morning temperatures March 7 to welcome a semi-trailer traveling from Salt Lake City loaded with 42,000 pounds of food and essential household items.

The donation from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was spearheaded locally by Bishop Steve Page of the church’s Aurora ward (on Martha Drive), a smaller church under the umbrella of the Cincinnati stake (regional church headquarters).

According to Cincinnati stake President Brady Lighthall, the donation was possible due to contributions of church members worldwide. He says the first Sunday of each month, church members fast from food and donate the money saved to the church to be distributed to non-profit organizations, typically with no church affiliation.

“On a local level, we are encouraged to look for organizations that benefit from our support. We look for those types of entities that provide valuable service in the community that serve and

H Outstanding Students of the Month

Chosen for their commitment to community and to others. We thank you!

AIDEN MILLER
Harrison High School proudly selects Aiden Miller as one of this month's Harrison Press Students of the Month. Aiden, a junior, is the son of Nicole and Matt Miller. Aiden is a student that all teachers enjoy having in their classes. He is an individual who goes out of his way to participate in class and help make those around him better. Aiden, who has done his part in reaching the district goal of a 100% student involvement, is extremely engaged at the high school. He is a member of the golf team, National Honor Society, DECA and DECA mentorship. He is doing all that while challenging himself with several AP classes. Outside of school, he works at Shift restaurant, babysits, and regularly works on his golf game. Mr. Curtis, one his golf coaches, said this about Aiden: "He is a wonderful young man and someone Harrison is thankful to have represent what a student-athlete at Harrison is all about. Aiden is extremely thoughtful and is a great teammate. He is honest with himself and knows what he needs to work on. He sets goals, works hard to achieve them, and is supremely trustworthy and dependable. If I had a son, I would love for him to be just like Aiden Miller." Mr. Ward, Aiden's DECA adviser, said "Aiden Miller is one of the most genuine young men I have ever had the opportunity to work with in my teaching career. Whether it is at school, on the golf course, or at Shift Restaurant (where he works as a host/server assistant), Aiden always puts others' needs ahead of his own, and is very courteous, responsible, and hard-working. Aiden was selected to represent Harrison DECA at the International Career Development Leadership Conference in Atlanta, Georgia, last year. He has a very bright future ahead of him!" Aiden plans to attend college, where his goal is to eventually become a lawyer. His advice that he wants to give to the student body is: "Get involved in at least one to two groups, clubs, or activities that you enjoy. Get out and do something. However, only do as much as you can handle, so you don't get distracted from schoolwork or any other work. Aiden, only to live the district goal and share that wisdom with us all. Can't wait to see you in a court room."

ALLY SIMPSON
Junior Bailey Fiebig was proudly selected as one of this month's Harrison Press Students of the Month. She is the daughter of Nicole Ventura and Douglas Fiebig. When Bailey comes to class, she always has a smile on her face and a sticker for you. She is always in a good mood and her positive attitude is infectious. Bailey is a student who has become very involved. She is a member of the Travel Club, HOSA and is on the Prom committee. She is also an active member of the Corpus Christi church. Mrs. Charis, Bailey's Medical Interventions teacher and HOSA adviser, said: "Bailey is a ray of sunshine. I can always count on her to share a smile and brighten my day. Bailey is a hard-working student who tries her best, makes good use of her time and is not afraid to ask for help if needed. She is very polite and well-mannered. Some teachers reward their students with stickers but Bailey shares encouraging stickers with her teachers. I have a whole collection of smiley face stickers on my keyboard that she has shared with me when she leaves the classroom wishing me a good day! The world needs more Bailey Fiebig!" Mr. Molsinger, her AP Language and Composition teacher, said: "Bailey has a positive attitude and is a very hard worker. She is a joy to have in class." Mrs. Hinterlong, Bailey's yearbook adviser, commented, "Bailey is one of the most productive yearbookers on staff this year; when her pages are assigned, she methodically completes them, making sure to include important information for this historical document about life at WHHS in 2023." She added, "Bailey personifies initiative; when she sees something that needs to be done, she often does it before even being asked, and I'm so excited that she plans to be a part of the staff next year as well." Bailey's Drawing and Painting teacher, Ms. Cummings, said: "Bailey is a kindhearted, hardworking student! She shines in the art room trying a variety of medias and challenging her art skills with new projects! She is a joy to have as a student!" Bailey one day plans to attend college where she is choosing between going into business or becoming a teacher. Bailey wants her classmates to know "You only live once. So, make sure you live it to the fullest." Fitting advice from someone who makes everyone she encounters happier.

As beginning farmers one of the biggest obstacles to overcome is startup costs. The Lange's contacted their local soil and water office and were educated on programs they had available to farms like theirs.

"We were fortunate enough to be selected for the equip program. We installed automatic waters, feeding pads, sowed new pasture/hay fields and more," Lange said. "We cannot thank the soil and water group enough. Our farm now operates so much smoother thanks to the Soil and water equip program."

The winners of the Essay Contest and Poster Contest were recognized.

Firmly Rooted elder and member Bill Libbert, 80, speaks about the Book of Genesis to a small number of people gathered for the continued revival at the Greendale church on March 7.

Firmly Rooted revival tries to connect to God

By LAURA A. HOBSON
Staff Reporter
lhobson@registerpublications.com

When Pastor Russell Grigsby went to a revival at Asbury University last month he had an inspiration. That revival at the small private Christian school in Wilmore, Kentucky, turned into a national story as the chapel it started in overflowed.

He and the church elders started a revival at his church, Firmly Rooted Ministries, 495 Ludlow St., Greendale, that will run Monday through Friday, from 7-8 p.m., until March 31.

About 30 people attended the revival the first few days. On March 7 only a few were there, but Grigsby said the spirit of God was present. His goal is to leave the door open to the community to connect to God, not necessarily focus on the numbers of attendees.

Bill Libbert who has served in several leadership roles at the church including becoming an elder in 2022, spoke at the revival about the need to learn more about God. He was discouraged more people weren't walking in the door but said that spring weather will bring more people into the church.

A native of Dillsboro, Libbert, 80, grew up in the Lutheran church in that town, but moved to Firmly Rooted, also a Lutheran church, in 1968. He, as others did, did not attend the Asbury revival but watched it via online streaming.

Libbert stood in front of the small crowd and read from Chapter 1 of the book of Genesis, detailing the creation of the world. He shared the analogy of how a building requires a builder and how a painting requires a painter. He concluded that creation requires a creator.

"So many people in our community say they are Christians," Libbert said.

The revival at Firmly Rooted has brought in both members and non-members of the congregation. Grigsby is hopeful some will become members of the church as well as spread the word of God in the community. He is also training to the elders to make more disciples for the church.

Nancy Watkins, a Greendale resident, is not a member of Firmly Rooted but was there March 7. She saw the event posted on Facebook and attended partially in memory of the loss of her husband as well as wanting a place to hear some music and not be alone. March 7 was the fourth night she attended the revival.

"It was great to get out of the house. I wanted to say something about the journey in Christianity. The fellowship is nice," Watkins said.

Although she said she didn't know anything about the Lutheran religion, she found the experience rewarding.

Grigsby said Watkins' struggle was "so profound that she felt it difficult to even pray. She cried out to God for help. A week later she came to one of our 7 p.m. meetings. My wife, Jenna, engaged her in conversation. She explained the Trinity in a way that made sense. Nancy felt a weight had lifted from her shoulders. She felt she could trust God with her prayers again."

Traditional hymns and contemporary Christian tunes played in the background. Grigsby chose both kinds of music because they crossed generational lines.

Students hunt for life after school at job fair

By LAURA A. HOBSON

HARRISON – There's no time like the present to start looking for a job and the beginning of a career.

More than 500 Harrison High School juniors and seniors attended a job fair in the Activity Center on March 8. Approximately 42 businesses had booths with representatives who talked with students about entry level career opportunities.

Most students browsed briefly at some of the booths and then left the center with ideas for the future.

Junior Bobbie Jo Felland, 16, was interested in the Early Learning Center at the University of Cincinnati. Although that program wasn't represented, she talked to Heather Schaefer, director of Shared Living Services, Creative Connections, about the helping professions in general. Felland works at Monk's Kitchen and Angilo's Pizza in Harrison, but wants to look into a career in the helping professions.

considering a technician role after attending the University of Cincinnati. She stopped by the booth of Mercy Health and talked with Deanna Bischoff, manager, Talent Acquisition/Recruitment, Bond Hill headquarters, and Kim Tedesco, professional recruiter, Talent Acquisition, Fairfield Hospital.

Great Harrison Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Sara Cullin asked, in 2021, Southwest Local School District to make the career fair open to the public, especially because of the pandemic where businesses struggled to find adult workers. The district agreed.

JamieLyn Johnson started as a special education teacher, but has become the workforce developer for the Southwest Local School District. In her role, she has expanded the job fair and worked to include students who might follow a different pathway than college, such as construction, advanced manufacturing or welding.

"We look at what our students need," Johnson said.

She has worked to change the stigma of manufacturing jobs to train students to be leaders in those roles.

After the students walk through the job fair, they may have onsite interviews where the businesses return to talk with them and give them feedback. A few are offered jobs.

Later in the evening, the job fair was open to the public.

According to Johnson, part of the career preparation is resume creation, professional dress, direct feedback and interviewing skills, which help students in their job search.

"Each year we try to do something different," Johnson said. "This year, we offered transportation and childcare service to students who needed it."

The 24 student members of Bright Elementary School's student council work to benefit classmates and their community while developing life-long leadership skills during school days.

BES kindergarten teachers Karen Schebler and Shawna Leising, in their first year leading student council, have been impressed by the dedication and thoughtfulness of the third- through fifth-grade students (two from each class) voted on by classmates during an election process that mirrored United States elections and is used as educational opportunities.

Each month, student council members identify specific items the North Dearborn Food Pantry is in low supply of and organize focused collection drives. Students also collect and donate teddy bears and stuffed animals to the fire and police departments to be given to children during traumatic experiences.

Later this year student council members will organize a fundraiser to help the school purchase snacks and other items for the school's Field Day. Members will also organize games and a talent show, that they will judge, during Field Day.

"We like to give them leadership opportunities," said Schebler. "Typically, people think of elementary kiddos as not really being responsible or taking a leadership role. It gives them an opportunity to have a part in their school; to be able to be involved in the activities that we do plan and to lead some of those things. It gives them another platform to be role models; these are students that their peers elected to lead them, so it gives them an opportunity to be a role model and hopefully encourage other students to try it next year."

"That's our jobs as teachers; we are educating these children to be our future leaders," said Leising. "We are trying to give them the opportunity to develop those leadership skills. They are coming up with ideas on their own, I was very proud of them, and thinking of some services projects to spearhead."

Both say the school corporation and school administrators have been supportive of student council's endeavors, along with the Bright community.

"I think that the whole community has kind of supported us," said Leising. "I feel very supported by the community."

Southwest schools want to hear about your feedback

We are fortunate to live in a tight-knit community that works together and values the future of our children. Our schools are the heartbeat of the Southwest Local School District community.

As you know, here at SLSD we are focused on living our mission "Academic and Social Growth, for ALL students, every day!" and ensuring that parents and the community are both informed and involved.

We are excited to announce that we have launched a public engagement campaign that will include every member of our community. Over this next year, we want to hear your feedback about what's going on in the district and what you want the future of our district to look like. We also want to hear your ideas and solutions to the key issues facing our schools. In a nutshell, we want to listen to you. There are some key areas where we want to hear from you, including student safety and well-being, academic excellence, facilities, and more. The sky is the limit!

We encourage you to take our brief 10-minute survey about some of the top priorities of the district. Over the next few weeks, we want to get as many stakeholder survey completions as possible, so please share the link with your friends, your family, and your neighbors that live in our school district.

This survey will be important in setting up our three upcoming spring town halls.

Veterans Museum needs volunteers

RISING SUN – If you have a love of history and those historical things pertinent to Rising Sun, then consider volunteering your time and services to the Southeastern Indiana Veterans Museum.

A meeting will be held at 6 p.m. Monday, March 20, in the museum's basement, at 100 N. High St. Rising Sun. Volunteers will be needed during the museum's operational hours on Monday, Thursday, and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The museum is one of the 164 historic Indiana Carnegie Libraries that is currently being featured by the Indiana Division of Historic Preservation & Archaeology. The building was built in 1916 and was funded by Andrew Carnegie who also financed construction of 2,000 libraries worldwide; 164 of those libraries were built in Indiana and Rising Sun is fortunate to be able to use the facility once again to showcase the unique memorabilia on display inside.

Tours are welcome from schools or other groups. Admission is free, but donations are appreciated. Contact PG Gentrup for more information on volunteering or for general questions on setting up appointments at 513-602-5595, or Tammy Elbright at 812-584-2312. Anyone interested in volunteering can help as many or as few hours as they wish.

St. Elizabeth Dearborn Breast Center unveils new upgrades

LAWRENCEBURG – The St. Elizabeth Dearborn Breast Center has upgraded facilities, including extensive renovations to both its lobby and imaging areas.

Key among these improvements, the center, at 600 Wilson Creek Road, now has two new tomosynthesis mammography units, also known as 3D mammography. This state-of-the-art, digital X-ray process creates a three-dimensional image of the breast. As a result, the new 3D mammography units provide a more detailed, comprehensive view of the breast than what was possible from traditional, two-dimensional mammography.

"We are dedicated to providing our patients with the highest quality care. Our recent upgrade with two new 3D mammography units at Dearborn Breast Center allows us to deliver convenient, cutting-edge screening and diagnostic services to those we serve," says Jaime Grund, MS, LGC, director of St. Elizabeth Healthcare's Precision Medicine and Breast Centers.

Because radiologists are staffed on site at the center, patients receive their diagnostic mammography results promptly. The center also offers comprehensive breast ultrasound services for patients who may require additional or specialized diagnostic imaging and procedures beyond mammography.

Nearly 290,000 new cases of breast cancer are diagnosed in women across the United States each year, according to the American Cancer Society. Breast cancer is much more treatable when caught in its earliest stages through annual mammograms or breast self-exams.

The American College of Radiology and the Society of Breast Imaging continue to recommend that women at average breast cancer risk begin screening at age 40 but have a risk assessment at age 30 to see if screening prior to age 40 is needed. Women should continue screening past age 74, unless severe comorbidities limit life expectancy.

"There's no better time than now to schedule your mammogram – particularly if you've perhaps been putting it off due to the COVID-19 pandemic or other concerns," says Terri Bogan, a nurse manager with St. Elizabeth Healthcare's Women's Breast Centers. "Getting a mammogram is a quick and easy process, and you can leave feeling assured you've taken care of one of the most important steps in managing your overall health care as a woman."

To schedule a screening mammography at the Dearborn Breast Center, call 812-496-7710.

Tax Tips & Financial Facts

3 Steps to Simplify Tax Prep so you can File on Time

Spring is noted for the sense of rejuvenation it inspires when temperatures warm up and flowers begin to bloom. But in the United States, the onset of spring is followed shortly thereafter by tax season, which typically generates entirely different feelings than the first sight of spring blooms.

The deadline to file tax returns in the U.S. in 2023 is Tuesday, April 18. With that deadline looming, now is a good time to consider these three basic tax preparation tips, courtesy of the Internal Revenue Service.

1. Access your IRS account. Individuals can access or create their IRS account at irs.gov/account. That ensures taxpayers have the latest information about their federal tax account and enables them to see information about their most recently filed return. A visit to irs.gov/account also allows individuals to make payments and apply for payment plans, among other options.

2. Organize your tax records. The IRS urges taxpayers to wait to file their returns until they have all of their records, including:

- Forms W-2 from employer(s)
- Forms 1099 from banks, issuing agencies and others payers, including unemployment compensation, dividends, pension, annuity or retirement plan distributions
- Form 1099-K, 1099-MISC, W-2, or other income statement if you worked in the gig economy
- For 1099-INT if you were paid interest
- Other income documents and records of digital asset transactions, including convertible virtual currency and cryptocurrency, stablecoins and non-fungible tokens (NFTs)
- Form 1095-A, Health Insurance Marketplace Statement, to reconcile advance payments or claim Premium Tax Credits for 2022 Marketplace coverage
- IRS or other agency letters
- CP01A Notice with your new Identity Protection PIN

3. Check your Individual Tax Identification Number. The IRS notes that an ITIN only requires renewal if it has expired and is needed on a federal tax return. An expired ITIN can delay the processing of a return, which in turn can delay tax credits and refunds. Taxpayers filing with the help of a licensed tax professional are urged to contact that individual to inquire about any additional information they may need to file a return on time.

Make such an inquiry well in advance of the deadline to file so you have sufficient time to gather all of the necessary documentation.

More information about filing taxes is available at irs.gov.

Standing there, just waving at motorists

By LAURA A. HOBSON
Staff Reporter
lhobson@registerpublications.com

There's a man dressed in a Statue of Liberty costume waving at cars driving by Liberty Tax office along U.S. 50 in Lawrenceburg or Aurora.

It is Kevin Tice, a man in his early 30s, who is a waver for Liberty Tax. He works several hours at either the Lawrenceburg or Aurora office, 519 Green Blvd., during the week.

"As long as it ain't lightning, I work," said Tice.

Several years ago, Tice and a friend drove by Liberty Tax. Tice thought the idea of being a waver was appealing, so he applied for the job and received it.

People see the waver and stop in to learn more about Liberty Tax. Some also recognize him at the grocery store.

"He works hard when he is here. We have embraced him," said Lawrenceburg office manager Cynthia Stafford, a 15-year employee of Liberty Tax.

"The company uses some guerilla marketing with a waver, although it doesn't consider it an easy job," Stafford said. "This involves person-to-person, face-to-face and business-to-business marketing. We do things using non-conventional methods to attract interest and attention."

Linda Goepfer is the franchise owner for both Lawrenceburg and Aurora tax offices, along with a Liberty Tax office at 10548 Harrison Ave., Harrison.

Stafford considers Tice, an Aurora native, a champion for Liberty. He started in 2009 and has served as a waver ever since. He even posts advertisements about Liberty's tax advisers on his Facebook page. Those posts, along with those on Liberty Tax's Facebook page, attract customers and even potential employees. Stafford said Liberty Tax wants to increase its client base, currently in the 3,000 to 5,000 range.

Cincy State receives grant for Harrison's aviation program

Cincinnati State Technical and Community College was one of 11 schools nationwide to be awarded a grant by the Federal Aviation Administration to expand the college's Aviation Maintenance Technology program, which is headquartered at the college's campus in Harrison.

The college will use the $423,000 grant to purchase state-of-the-art training equipment, expand its new aviation maintenance training program for area high school students, and expand marketing and outreach efforts for the program.

"We are grateful to the FAA for this grant and the confidence it shows in the quality of our Aviation Maintenance Program," said Monica Posey, president of Cincinnati State. "This grant will benefit students and employers throughout our region."

The demand for FAA certified aviation maintenance technicians is soaring in Greater Cincinnati, mainly due to the expansive growth in the air cargo industry near the Greater Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport, where Amazon is completing a $1.5 billion air cargo hub and where DHL and others operate major distribution facilities.

Cincinnati State's aviation maintenance technology program has 160 students enrolled in associate degree and certificate programs in airframe, powerplant, and avionics.

Graduates in this field can expect starting wages of $25 to $30 per hour according to labor market data, and with overtime can see incomes of up to $100,000 per year.

One of the strengths of the Cincinnati State AMT program is its emphasis on hands-on and experiential learning that begins with lab courses and continues with cooperative education assignments with employers.

One Biggest Loser started out slow because of the Bengals

By BETH TERRILL
Staff Reporter
rs@registerpublications.com

The Biggest Losers are still on track and vying to win the grand prize on April 15. Participants who are still involved in the contest are starting to see the light at the end of the tunnel and are looking forward to the finish line.

The second-place winner in the women's Biggest Loser competition last year was Courtney Hochstrasser. She has her eye on the $500 first-place prize and is working daily towards meeting that goal.

"The biggest loser started out a little slow for me this year," Hochstrasser said.

Trying to keep things on track with a busy schedule is a trying factor for all those involved but Hochstrasser shared some of her secrets.

"I'm a diehard Cincinnati Bengals fan and I traveled to Buffalo and Kansas City for the playoff games. I missed a couple of weigh-ins for those weekends I was gone, but I've gotten back on track. During the week I do a lot of intermittent fasting and a low carb diet. I try to workout at least three to four times a week," she said. "The hardest part is fitting in time to work out with my busy schedule. I'm a nurse and I work 12-hour shifts. It's hard to make myself workout on days that I'm working."

Looking ahead to the ending of the contest, Hochstrasser added, "If I win, I'll be putting the money towards my next year's Bengals season tickets."

Week eight for the female losers based on a percentage were:

- Sherry Garner – 1.49
- Janice Sams – 1.36
- Beth Hannah – 0.76
- Tammy Weaver – 0.28
- Gina Kremer – 0.24
- Courtney Hochstrasser – 0.17
- Jackie Rudolph – 0.07

Week eight for the male losers based on a percentage were:

- Lenny Sams – 5.07
- Bobby Hannah – 1.94
- Korey Gipson – 1.82
- Drew Powell – 1.18
- Kyle Weaver – 1.12
- Seam Kramer – 0.17.

Cornhole tourney helps funds South Dearborn scholarship

AURORA – South Dearborn High School's JAG program hosted a cornhole tournament March 11 at the Aurora Recreation Community Center with help from Aurora Parks and Recreation, Aurora Lions Club and Special Olympics Indiana to fund Aurora Lions Club South Dearborn High School scholarships.

Several dozen competitors faced off in teams of two aiming to sink their shots or knock a competitor's bag from the board. After scores were tallied, team McGraw (father and son team of Tim and Jake McGraw) took home first-place bragging rights and a custom cornhole set crafted by Aurora's Big Indian Woodworking.

All participants received a free T-shirt designed by South Dearborn JAG members, who also created advertising material to promote the tournament. Totaled, the cornhole tournament raised $310 for Aurora Lions Club scholarships for high school seniors.

Prior to the tournament, Aurora Lions Club hosted its annual scholarships.

Southeastern Indiana REMC awards $52,809 to community projects

OSGOOD — In January, Southeastern Indiana REMC awarded $52,809 in Operation RoundUp grants to 26 recipients from across the cooperative's seven-county service territory.

Operation RoundUp is an ongoing charitable fundraising program to benefit worthwhile community projects. A nine-person volunteer board of trustees administers the funds, which are kept in the Southeastern Indiana REMC Community Fund until they are disbursed.

The grants went to: Dillsboro, $1,809, for playground equipment improvements and ADA ramp and border addition at the community park.

First Baptist Church Dillsboro, $2,500, to purchase supplies and backpacks for "Back to School Bash."

Dearborn County 4-H,

$800, for supplies for after-school 4-H Connections Club.

Dillsboro Main Street, $500, to provide Hi-Vis vests for volunteers.

Southeastern Indiana Center for the Arts, $2,500, to build picnic tables for city and county parks in the Southeast Indiana region.

Southeast Indiana Youth Orchestra, $2,200, to purchase a second sound system for performances.

Pregnancy Care Center of Southeast Indiana, $2,500, for fireproof, lockable cabinets.

Rising Sun Volunteer Fire Department, $2,500, for new fire hose to equip new fire engine.

"These grants are made possible by the generosity of co-op members who opt to round their electric bill up to the next whole dollar each month," said Keith Mathews, general manager. "This is a voluntary program. Members can opt in or out of the program at any time."

Applicants must be 501C groups or organizations and must meet the eligibility requirements defined in the program guidelines. For the most part, funds will be granted to meet the needs of applicants that are not being met through other sources.

"These funds will not be used to pay utility bills, nor will they go towards political campaigns," said Mathews.

The next opportunity to apply for an Operation Round Up grant is this June.

For more information about the Operation Round Up program, visit <https://www.seiremc.com/operationroundup>.

bles and benefit a large number of people," said Lighthall. "The purpose for doing this, in everything that we do, we strive to follow Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ set the example of loving, of serving, of up-lifting, of feeding the hungry. ... That is at the point of the good that our church, and a number of other churches as well, is doing; striving to follow the example of Jesus Christ and loving and serving and helping our fellow man. "I am so impressed by (pantry board members and volunteers). They are the ones that run that operation and they donate large amounts of their time and effort and it's a huge part of their lives. They serve hundreds of people every month and thousands every year and it's amazing to see what they do. I am personally very grateful for great people like them and wonderful organizations like the North Dearborn Pantry that provide these essential services in our community because without them a lot of people would suffer even more," said Lighthall. The church also donated a new pallet jack to be used in the pantry's warehouse, which was put to immediate use unloading the delivery. Last year, the church also donated $5,000 to fund the pantry. North Dearborn Pantry's Operations Manager Melanie Marshall said the delivery was the largest single donation in the history of the non-profit that began in 2006. "This one is right off the scale. It is off the scale for any donation we have ever gotten," said Marshall.

On the rare occasion that the pantry finds its coffers full, excess items are quickly donated to other pantries for distribution. "Every time I think 'ahh, I should hoard this' and I give it away, I get blessed tenfold. It just works that way," she said. Along with food and essential household items like soap and laundry detergent, the pantry offers clothing and other items donated from businesses, organizations and volunteers. Area students also volunteer at the pantry and organize food drives to bolster supplies. "This whole community is just so supportive, and everyone rallies behind that; they want to help. They want to get you over that bump. If we can help them (those in need) get over that bump, it can stop that snowball," said Marshall. "We are here for people; this is a no judgment zone here." Helping pantry volunteers organize donated items on shelves March 7 were several youth members of area wards. The North Dearborn Pantry is at 2517 North Dearborn Road, and is open Sunday 5:30-7:30 p.m., Monday 9 a.m.-noon, Tuesday 5:30-7:30 p.m., and Saturday 9 a.m.-noon. For detailed information, call 812-637-2841 or visit www.NorthDearborn-Pantry.org. Patrons are asked to provide state identification and proof of residency, but because the pantry does not accept government aid, the pantry accepts all individuals with required information. However, no individuals in need will leave without assistance or help locating local assistance providers.

While I realize that the state had no way to know that we would experience inflation that we haven't seen since the late-70s and early '80s, it was never mentioned in our discussion that this project would be funded at any less than 100 percent. This puts our city council in a very difficult position." Mains encouraged residents to draft letters in opposition to the less-than-full funding to elected state officials. Council member Ryan Samuels said the city does have the ability to pay the $300,000 required to complete the project. He said the expenditure came as a surprise to the city but agreed with fellow council members there are no guarantee that construction costs will not continue to increase. According to council member Ryan Grubbs, the project aligns with the ongoing development and improvements along Harrison Avenue and although he is not thrilled by the unexpected expenditure, he hopes to complete the project before costs potentially increase further. "The reality of it is that we are still getting the majority of it funded through the state of Ohio," said Grubbs. "And it is a small portion that we are putting in, it just was an unbudgeted amount of money. That is probably the biggest thing that gets me from my finance side of things, is getting it (news of increase) right at the last minute, especially when we have other projects. "When we have the safety of our kids to take into account crossing that bridge, I think that it is the right de-

Delay on restaurant Wilson said that representatives from Culvers Restaurant have informed city officials the construction and opening of the Harrison location has been temporarily put on hold. The cause of the pause in construction is due to the restructuring of the company with construction expected to resume sometime this summer. Mayor Bill Neyer said the potential for the city to receive a YMCA in the near future is unlikely due to high costs. According to Neyer, in 2019 the estimated cost to construct a YMCA at the LifeSpring Church was $11 million; today the cost exceeds $19 million. He said the church plans to bring some form of community recreation to the church. "I've been talking about going to an IU game for a long time and all my brothers have gone but I've never gone. She actually got the tickets for my dad and her, but she couldn't go, so I went," said Maddy with a huge smile. While visiting with the cheerleader, the two had interesting conversations. "We discussed programs they do at IU for kids my age and how I could be an IU cheerleader one day and all the stuff she does at practices," said Maddy. Future plans and goals for Phillippe include to hopefully continue with her cheerleading during her high school and college years but also wants to be a sixth-grade math teacher. "My other grandma, my dad's mom, is a principal at South Dearborn and when we have breaks, like when we have two weeks off, she has one, so I go to her school and help teach the kids," said Maddy. Another bucket list item includes "going to an IU game and actually meet some of the players. My favorite player is Tracey Jackson-Davis, he's the tallest," said Maddy, who is crossing her fingers this item gets knocked off of her list. As a seventh grader, Maddy has her dreams and goals in place and is looking forward to focusing on completing them. As for now she enjoys spending time with her mom and dad, and her three brothers, Braysen, 10, Tanner 7, Kian, 4, and also enjoys playing volleyball.

RELIEF FROM BACK PAIN

How a drug-free and surgery-free treatment offers hope to millions of back pain sufferers.

DID YOU KNOW?: BACK PAIN FACTS

- ✓ One-half of all working Americans admit to having back pain symptoms each year.
- ✓ Americans spend at least $50 billion each year on back pain—and that's just for the more easily identified costs.
- ✓ Back pain is one of the most common reasons for missed work. In fact, back pain is the second most common reason for visits to the doctor's office, outnumbered only by upper-respiratory infections.
- ✓ Experts estimate that as many as 80% of the population will experience a back problem at some time in our lives.
- ✓ Most cases of back pain are mechanical or non-organic—meaning they are not caused by serious conditions, such as inflammatory arthritis, infection, fracture or cancer.

BACK PAIN: TOP 10 PREVENTATIVE STEPS

You might not know this, but back pain is the 2nd most common reason for visits to the doctor's office, outnumbered only by upper-respiratory infections. In fact, some experts say, as many as 80% of us will experience a back problem at some time in our lives. So with that in mind, here are the Top Ten Preventative Steps anyone can take to minimize back injuries.

1. Maintain a healthy diet and weight.
2. Remain active—under the supervision of your doctor.
3. Avoid prolonged inactivity or bed rest.
4. Warm up or stretch before exercising or other physical activities, such as gardening.
5. Maintain proper posture.
6. Wear comfortable, low-heeled shoes.
7. Sleep on a mattress of medium firmness to minimize any curve in your spine.
8. Lift with your knees, keep the object close to your body, and do not twist when lifting.
9. Quit smoking. Smoking impairs blood flow, resulting in oxygen and nutrient deprivation to spinal tissues.
10. Consult with one of our Wellness Centers throughout Chicagoland.

The Conditions

Below are just some of the conditions that non-surgical spinal decompression is believed to help. Consult with your chiropractor to learn if it can help your pain.

Herniated Discs

This is the most common spinal condition treated with decompression treatment. When the spine compresses it can cause disc herniations to expand, putting pressure on surrounding spinal nerve roots. It is believed that decompression treatment takes the pressure off these damaged discs so that the disc bulge will return closer to its original size.

Degenerative Disc Disease

Loss of disc height can be exacerbated by spinal compression, causing the vertebral bodies to move closer together. This can cause nerve compression and other forms of common back pain. Decompression is believed to eliminate the overwhelming pressure on degenerated discs reducing or eliminating painful symptoms.

Facet Joint Syndrome

Conceptually, facet syndrome causes pain due to arthritic changes in the vertebral bones. Decompression is believed to help to create more space between the vertebrae, reducing painful symptoms.

Spinal Stenosis

Spinal stenosis is created by the narrowing of the spinal canal. This narrowing may be caused by mechanical problems or by abnormalities in the aging spine. It may or may not result in low-back pain, limping, and a lack of feeling in the legs. Ultimately, stenosis is a chronic condition that cannot be "cured," but it is believed that decompression can improve the condition, and these improvements can be maintained over the long term.

SPINAL DECOMPRESSION: EXPLAINED

Spinal decompression is a non-invasive, non-surgical treatment for those suffering from chronic back pain.

The Science

Fig. 1

Symptoms of a herniated disc can vary depending on the location of the herniation and the type of soft tissue involved. In many cases severe and unrelenting pain will radiate into the region served by an affected nerve root that is irritated or impinged by the herniated material.

Spinal decompression gently pulls the vertebral joints apart.

It is believed this precise process produces a negative pressure inside the disc causing any herniated material to slowly recede away from the effected nerve root and back into the disc.

It is also believed through this process the disc is re-hydrated, aiding in its restoration.

Fig. 4

Healthy Disc.

To see the complete 3D animation of the process visit www.DecompressionClinics.com

The Treatment

Patients are fitted with a support system then positioned on a comfortable spinal decompression table. The purpose of the support system is to stabilize the patients body.

An advanced computer system elongates the spine in a slow, gentle manner in order to relieve pressure on compressed discs.

The procedure is virtually painless and many patients experience such a relaxing sensation they have actually been known to fall asleep on the table.

The Goal

The Decompression doctor's primary goal is to relieve the patients pain. It is extremely important to accurately diagnose the cause of the patients condition.

The doctor will perform a physical evaluation, review all previously existing data such as an MRI or X-Ray to be certain the patient is a candidate for the decompression procedure.

Harrison girls wrestling repeats state title

By DICK MALONEY
CONTRIBUTOR

It was a weekend of firsts, seconds and thirds for Harrison wrestlers Harrison's 2021-2022 girls wrestling team is no longer the only team state champion in school history. It has been joined by the 2022-2023 team.

The Wildcats, with eight wrestlers in the 14 weight classes and two individual state champions, scored 97 points in the first Ohio High School Athletic Association state-sanctioned girls wrestling tournament at Schottenstein Center in Columbus.

Individually, junior Chloe Dearwester won her third consecutive state title at 105 pounds (she won the Ohio High School Wrestling Coaches Association Tournament in 2021 and 2022) and 125-pounder Raegan Briggs won her second consecutive title. Dearwester's four matches lasted 5 minutes, 25 seconds, or less than one regulation match (six minutes).

Parris wins long-awaited Big Ten championship

By JIM BUCHBERGER
SPORTS EDITOR
sports@registerpublications.com

ANN ARBOR, Mich. - Lawrenceburg's Mason Parris, undefeated fifth-year senior heavyweight wrestler at the University of Michigan, did the Wolverines proud by winning the Big Ten Conference championship Sunday night on the home mat.

Now 28-0 in his final season at UM and the No. 1-ranked heavyweight in the nation, the former 3-time Indiana high school state champion at LHS (206-1) overcame back-to-back Big Ten runner-up finishes in 2020 and 2021, and an injury-wracked 2022 campaign, decisioning Penn State's Greg Kerkvliet 5-3 for his first conference title.

Ranked No. 2 in both the nation and the Big Ten, Kerkvliet was a familiar foe to Parris, having defeated him via 18-2 major decision in the 2022 conference tournament's third-place match. The 2017 LHS graduate had missed more than half of last season with a herniated disk.

Parris used last summer to condition, returning himself to the form that earned a Junior World Championship following his NCAA-qualifying freshman year at UM in 2019 and an NCAA runner-up finish in 2021.

Or maybe even better. "There's been a lot of developments this year," Parris told The Michigan Daily. "A lot of my training has been about getting my confidence back from my injury last year and working my butt off. I think I'm the best version of myself right now. But there's a lot more to do."

The lone Wolverine wrestler to advance to the Big Ten championship round Sunday, Parris attacked Kerkvliet with a fireman's carry 45 seconds into the first period.

Piling up more than a minute of riding time, he worked Kerkvliet down to 56 seconds before getting a crucial third period escape.

After drawing his second stall warning late in the third period, losing a penalty point - unbeknownst to Parris, he thought he had won - the match went to overtime.

"I had no idea I had that stall called," Parris said. "I thought the match had ended. Then I looked at the clock and it was 3-3. I just had to take a deep breath and gather myself. It was what it was."

Boosted by the roars of the Michigan home crowd in the extra period, Parris dodged a Kerkvliet shot and answered with his own title-winning takedown to become the Wolverines' first Big Ten heavyweight champion since Airon Richardson (1998).

Erupting from the mat, Mason immediately pointed to parents Mark and Shay Parris in the stands, who were shown displaying a mix of cheers and tears on the Big Ten Network live telecast.

At the Big Ten Championship in 2020, Parris finished second to No. 1 Gable Stevenson of Minnesota.

In 2021, Parris was runner-up to Stevenson again in the conference final. During the NCAA Championships just 2 weeks later, Parris once again earned second place to Stevenson.

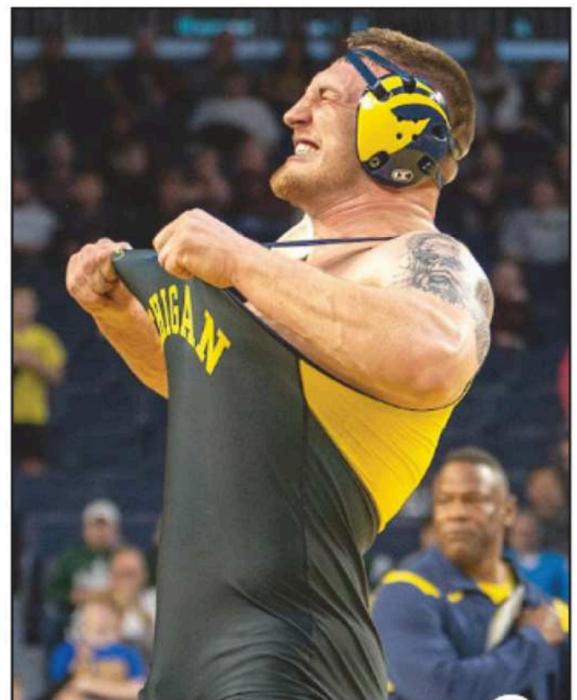

Stevenson, of course, went on to win the gold medal at the COVID-19 delayed Tokyo Olympics later that year, then turned professional with the WWE.

"I don't want to fall short anymore," Parris told the UM newspaper. "It's my time to get that national title and I'm going to do everything possible to do it."

Defending Big Ten champion Michigan, coached by Sean Borner, finished fifth in the conference tournament Sunday.

Two UM wrestlers, 157-pound redshirt senior Will Lewan and 184-pound graduate student Matt Finesilver, took third place, while 4 others earned a podium spot.

Seven Wolverines, including Lawrenceburg's Parris, earned a spot in the NCAA Tournament in Tulsa next week

Coach welcomes smooth transition on Harrison diamond

By DICK MALONEY
Contributor

He recognizes most names and faces, and also the “elephant on the field.”

Harrison High School’s new varsity baseball coach is as familiar with the program as someone coming from the outside could be, and to this point, he is impressed with what he’s seen.

Benjamin Toerner has coached on the Wildcats’ home field – for four seasons as the head man, and 10 years total, at Southwest Ohio Conference rival Ross. In 2019, the Rams advanced to the Division II regional finals, losing to Chamaine-Julienne. Last season, Ross won two of three from the Wildcats and finished 15-10 overall; 11-4 and in second place in the SWOC. His coaching contract was severed at the end of last summer.

The 2011 Ross graduate attended the University of Cincinnati, playing one year of club baseball. He still works in the Ross district, as a paraprofessional at the intermediate school.

Despite the somewhat unusual and very tense circumstances under which he was hired – former head coach Shawn Sowders was informed in mid-January that he would not be offered a contract – Toerner said the first weeks of practice have gone well (he was officially hired Feb. 16).

“Everything here has been great, from what I’ve been around,” he said after a practice March 6. “The support systems around are fantastic, the kids have been great. I haven’t had any issues. I know it’s a unique situation, but everything I’ve been around has been handled great.”

He also expressed admiration for Sowders.

“I respect the hell out of Shawn. He’s a fantastic coach and he’s done a great job around here.”

The program is now his, so what should Harrison fans expect?

“I’ve asked the kids already for two things. Be professional and be aggressive. If we can handle those two things, that’s what you should expect to see, a team that is professional, aggressive.”

The professional part showed itself when Toerner first met with players. He described it as a “very positive vibe from all of the kids.”

“I thought that was very mature this group. And ever since then, you know, whenever I asked anything of them, it’s kind of been the same way. It’s been a very energetic, ‘Yeah, Let’s try that. Let’s move forward.’”

Pitching, depth and athleticism will be the team strengths, Toerner said; the athleticism will give the Wildcats some defensive versatility. He also praised the senior class for its leadership.

The lineup itself is not settled; answers will begin to come into focus Thursday, when Harrison is scheduled to play a scrimmage at Elder (weather permitting).

“We have a loose idea of who is going to be where, but as far as a depth chart goes for those positions, it’s still very much up in the air,” Toerner said.

Juniors Anthony and Nick Sedam are three-year varsity players who will see prominent roles this season. Anthony Sedam hit .328 920-for-61) in 2022, with 16 runs batted in and 10 runs scored. Nick Sedam hit .338 (23-for-68) with three doubles, a triple, 16 RBI and 16 runs scored. Both will play in the field as well as pitch.

“They’re guys whose names I’ve seen on lineup cards for years now. I can already tell they’re bigger, stronger than they have been,” Toerner said. “They’ve put up some numbers already that been impressive. Just the things they do on the field are really impressive.”

Another junior, Kelyn Dallio, is also in the pitching mix. He appeared in 10 games last season with a 3-3 record and 2.37 earned run average with 50 strikeouts in 38.1 innings. Juniors Joe Banks, Elliott Flowers, Alan Roessler, Lukas Hudler and Owen Sickinger and sophomore Seth Green are also in the pitching mix. Of those, Banks has the most varsity experience, going 3-3 with a 2.455 ERA, 27 strikeouts and one shutout in 11 games (25.2 innings.)

“I don’t think we’ve thrown a pitcher on the mound yet that I haven’t gone, ‘Wow!’” Toerner said.

Harrison will play four scrimmages. After Elder, they go to Hamilton Saturday, March 18, host St. Xavier Tuesday, March 21, and play at Oak Hills Wednesday, March 22. The first regular-season game is Wednesday, March 29, at home vs. Conner. This season, SWOC teams will play three-game series against each other – on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, alternating home field. Harrison’s first SWOC game is Monday, April 3, at home vs. Edgewood.

EC's Wolf family enters Indiana Wrestling Hall

By JIM BUCHBERGER
SPORTS EDITOR
sports@registerpublications.com

INDIANAPOLIS - Indiana's high school wrestling coaches officially recognized what Dearborn County has known for most of 5 decades now on Sunday, Feb. 19.

The Wolf family - East Central's No. 1 clan on the mat dating back to the early 1990s - was accorded the rare honor as recipient of the Indiana High School Wrestling Coaches Association's Historians Special Family Award.

Nominated - and introduced - by former EC head coach Scott Schwarz, an Indiana Hall of Famer himself, the Bright area clan was honored at that organization's Hall of Fame banquet, held annually on the day after the IHSAA State Finals.

Bill and Jill Wolf's boys - all former Trojan standouts, including current EC head coach Adam and former Indiana University athletes Andrew and Arik - essentially have formed the center of East Central's successful and long-running mat universe. Along with the current generation of Wolf matmen, of course.

It all started with Wolf family patriarch Bill, an active member of the grass roots Trojan Wrestling Club for nigh on 40 years. He helped organize the youth wrestling club itself, working with the budding young EC grapplers, helping host countless youth and high school events - up to and including helping provide team meals on event days.

"We all started working on together about the time the boys started wrestling AAU and ISWA," said Schwarz.

East Central matriarch Jill Wolf, the mother of three wrestling sons and grandmother of two who just completed their Trojan careers, also has stood by matside since Adam, Andrew and Arik were little tykes in singlets. While rooting for the Trojans from the stands for years now, she continues to show her support by helping organize team breakfasts and team meals and helping out with meets and tournaments when needed.

Bill and Jill Wolf still live in the same house on State Line Road in Bright where they raised their 3 wrestling boys. Bill also still works with Adam and his sons in the family business, Wolf & Sons Contracting, LLC.

East Central's three original Wolf brothers all have compiled lists of wrestling credentials longer than the distance from Bright to the St. Leon campus.

Adam, a 1997 ECHS graduate, posted a 23-9 career record for the Trojans before going on to become head of Trojan Youth Wrestling, which annually supports 70 to 100 aspiring youngsters.

While organizing and hosting youth tournaments at EC, Adam coordinated camps and fundraising efforts before joining the high school coaching staff as an assistant from 2013-18.

Posting a 108-10 record since over as head coach in 2018, Adam Wolf has earned Class 4A Coach of the Year honors and is a 2-time Regional Coach of the Year award winner.

ference championships, with 25 individual and 4 team sectional titles and 17 individual and 4 team regional crowns.

Under Adam's watch, EC has registered 39 semistate qualifiers, 13 place finishers and 3 semistate champions. Trojans advanced from the 22nd team finisher in the state semifinals to a record third-place finish in 2022.

A total of 13 Trojan wrestlers have qualified for state in Adam Wolf's 4 seasons as head coach, with 5 place finishers - led by 170-pound state champ Bryer Hall (now at Ohio State) in 2021 and 145-pound runner-up Rider Searcy a year ago. After finishing 62nd as a team in the 2019 finals, EC climbed to 12th in 2021 and 11th in 2022.

East Central won the IHSWCA Team State Duals Class 3A championship in 2021 and finished third in 3A in 2022.

Andrew Wolf, still one of the most accomplished wrestlers in EC history, graduated in 1999 with a career 166-15 record. A sectional, regional and semistate champion all 4 years, as well as Academic All-Stater, Andrew was a 2-time state qualifier who finished third as a junior.

Upon graduation, he was the Trojans' career leader in no less than 8 categories: first takedowns (153), takedowns (394), near-fall points (482), pins (103), team points (1,017), points scored (1,351), matches (180) and wins.

Andrew also was an EC football standout, the state's leading rusher at running back for a 1998 Trojan team that went 12-2, losing 14-13 to state champion Cathedral in the semistate playoffs.

With numerous ISWA state titles and Team Indiana berths under his belt, Andrew Wolf moved on to IU, where he became an NCAA Tournament qualifier and the Hoosiers' team captain his senior year.

As a collegian, Andrew also was an FILA Junior and University Freestyle All-American.

Graduating with a bachelor's degree in secondary education, he embarked on his coaching career as an assistant at Mount Union University (2008-09) and Kent State (2009-12).

Andrew Wolf has served as a teacher and assistant wrestling coach at Maple Heights High School, near Cleveland, for the past 12 years. He and wife Dana are the parents of 3 boys - Phoenix, Roman and Reid.

Arik Wolf (ECHS class of 2004) was both a wrestler and football defensive end at Indiana University who went on to coach college football for 12 seasons at Allegheny College and Gannon University, both in Pennsylvania.

With an EC wrestling career mark of 132-15 (89.7%), Arik was a 4-time conference, sectional, regional and semistate champion whose top state finish was runner-up at 195 pounds.

On graduation his career numbers included 118 first takedowns, 301 takedowns, 240 near-fall points, 80 pins, 132 wins, 888 team points, 942 points scored and 147 matches.

Attending IU on a wrestling scholarship, Arik Wolf competed for one season but ended up playing 4 years for the football Hoosiers. His gridiron coaching career started as an assistant back at East Central.

Arik lives in Erie, Pa., and now teaches at Conneaut Lake Middle School. He and wife Brittney have 3 girls - Reese, Carter and Charlee.

The Wolf family tree's branches extend even deeper into East Central wrestling.

Adam's wife Lisa has served above and beyond the call of duty as team den mother, public relations specialist and all-around booster. Adam and Lisa and the boys reside on County Line Road in St. Peters.

Son Ben Wolf, a 2021 graduate, joined the EC coaching staff this season, while son Blake, won his fourth EIAC championship, a sectional title and was ranked No. 7 in the state at 126 pounds as a senior this year.

"The Wolf family has gone above and beyond for the wrestling program at East Central High School for 30-plus years," Schwarz added at the Hall of Fame banquet.

"Generations of the Wolf family have been part of not only East Central Wrestling, but Indiana Wrestling. Aunts, uncles, cousins and grandparents all have been part of the Wolf family commitment to wrestling, and all East Central sports. They are recognized around the state for their commitment and support of wrestling.

"Their commitment to East Central wrestling stretches from the youth program all the way through to high school. They continue to add to the wrestling legacy and tradition at East Central High School.

"They continue to be mentors to those who have passed through the program. They have always been humble and helped to shape the lives of many. Adam likes to refer to the program as the East Central Wrestling Family. The Wolf Family has turned East Central into an extended family. What a great way to honor the Wolf family by the IHSWCA honoring them as the Family of the Year.

"East Central athletics have been very blessed by their commitment and dedication over the years. And we look forward to seeing them around for many years to come."

Lady Trojans break 3 records in EC Indoor

By JIM BUCHBERGER
SPORTS EDITOR
sports@registerpublications.com

ST. LEON - East Central girls track and field is looking at another potential big season, if last weekend's early-bird EC Indoor Invitational is any indication.

EC's Lady Trojans broke 3 meet records, all 3 of in which freshman distance standout Callie Bentley played a part.

East Central's 4 X 800-meter relay opened the unscored, multi-team event, held annually on the first Saturday in March at the EC fieldhouse, with the team of Bentley, senior Ashtyn Gindling, sophomore Addy Brewer and senior Rachel Campbell winning in a record 10:22.78.

The Trojan distance foursome surpassed the previous meet record of 10:28.79, set on March 7, 2009, by host East Central.

Bentley, the 29th individual finisher in last fall's IHSAA cross country state finals, following by breaking the individual 800-meter run meet mark with her winning time of 2:28.66.

She surpassed the 2008 Invite record of 2:30.80 set by 2-time state 800 meter champion Kathy Klump, of South Dearborn.

As a point of reference, EC girls head coach Ashley Andres, a former University of Cincinnati track and field All-American herself, noted the following facts via Twitter:

"Former record-holder Kathy Klump went on to win her second outdoor state championship in the 800 in 2008. She was a 3-time All-American for the University of Cincinnati. She still holds UC's indoor and outdoor school records, with a time of 2:03.35 being her best."

Andres added: "We're so excited to watch this freshman for the next 4 years!"

Lady Trojans' third record of the day Saturday came in the 4 X 400-M Relay, won by the team of junior Jorjia Ferguson, Bentley and seniors Erika Wells and Campbell in a time of 4:18.90.

They topped the 2018 meet record of 4:25.89, set by EC's own Emma Fey, Taylor Messmore, Eva Grimm and Abby Bittner.

East Central sophomore Ellie Hill appeared primed to continue her field events dominance, winning both high jump (5'2") and long jump (16'4.5") on the home indoor track.

Adding individual wins for the Lady Trojans were Brewer in the 3200-M Run (13:28.69) and Ferguson in 55-M Hurdles (10.09).

East Central boys 776 Sprint Medley team of juniors Chase Bellman, AJ Garrison and Zander Roope with senior Carson Koelling, were the Trojans' lone boys winner in a time of 1:42.09).

EC track and field continues preseason indoor competition at the Hoosier State Relays Championships March 25.

Q: The Spring season brings the chance for hail storms, and hail can cause serious damage to any vehicle. We are often asked two questions: 1) Is hail damage covered by my insurance? And 2) How do we go about repairing this damage?

A: First, hail damage falls under the Comprehensive portion of an insurance policy. Comprehensive covers items such as hail, theft, vandalism, deer hits, and acts of nature that are beyond your control. Most insurance companies will not hold these losses against the policy holder when establishing future rates.

Second, as far as repairing hail damage, we go over the car thoroughly and identify every dent. The method used for repair depends on the severity of the dent. Less severe dents might be repairable using a paintless dent repair process, where we actually work the dent out without having to break the paint. However, more severe dents or cracks would need to be repaired using conventional methods - repairing and painting the damaged area as required. In either case, Randy Lane's Auto Body, Inc. will handle the entire hail damage claim for you.

By JIM BUCHBERGER

INDIANAPOLIS - Only senior 69 boys and girls high school varsity basketball players from throughout Indiana have been honored as First Team Academic All-State by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association this year.

Rising Sun's Peyton Merica and Lawrenceburg's Lizzie Redar are two of those, helping top the list of 550 players, both First Team or Honorable Mention.

Area players joining them from the Honorable Mention roster are East Central's Caitlyn Dick, Rhys Hofer and Julia Tiemann and Rising Sun's Dylan Martin.

IBCA-member head coaches from schools across the state annually nominate their senior student-athletes who meet criteria that include a 3.5 grade point average or higher, class rank in the upper 25 percent and either an SAT score of 1100 or ACT composite score of 24.

When making selections, the IBCA Academic All-State program considers GPA, academic class rank, SAT and ACT scores, as well as athletic performance in areas such as points, rebounds, and assists per game.

Batesville's Cole Pride was the only other area player named to the Academic All-State First Team, while Honorable Mention also went to Batesville's Cora Deputy and Makayla Granger-Young and South Ripley's Mya McNew.

The IBCA has selected an Academic All-State team for boys since 1973. The program was expanded to include a girls Academic All-State team in 1980.
